Attending European Master in Stroke Medicine programme has been an excellent opportunity to deepen my understanding of cerebrovascular diseases. It has given me confidence both in clinical practice and in stroke research. This programme, well organized by Danube University Krems, allows students to have evidence-based knowledge from leading stroke experts in a supporting atmosphere. Furthermore, it has been interesting to meet all the colleagues around the world, making new friends as well as potential future collaborators. Overall, I can highly recommend this Master programme to anyone interested in further qualification in stroke medicine, both specialists and younger physicians still in training.
