

Guideline Translation

Thank you for your enquiry about translating a European Stroke Organisation (ESO) Guideline, which are published in the European Stroke Journal. Both ESO and SAGE support the dissemination of these guidelines for clinical and educational purposes, provided the following conditions are met:

1. A link is provided from the translated version hosted online to the original publication published on the SAGE Journals website.
2. A disclaimer is included within the translated version, stating who has translated the document and any funding declarations.
3. There should be a reference citing the original version including a statement that the exclusive licence for original English language and any translation remains with SAGE.
4. The following disclaimers are included to both print and electronic versions:
 - a) The authors of the English language version of guidelines, the Journal's editors, SAGE, and European Stroke Organisation (ESO) shall not be liable for any losses caused by reliance on the accuracy or reliability of translated information, and will not accept any legal responsibility for any errors or omissions that may be made during translation of the guidelines.
 - b) This single copy is for your personal, non-commercial use only. For permission to reprint multiple copies or to order presentation-ready copies for distribution, contact SAGE Publishing at reprints@sagepub.co.uk.
5. Inclusion in print is permitted, as long as all disclaimers are present in the printed edition.

We thank you for complying to these conditions, which allow the impact and reach of these guidelines to be monitored.

SAGE will not request any fees for translations of ESO guidelines. The European Stroke Organisation does not request any fees from national societies affiliated for translations. Single individuals and other parties may contact ESO to request information about any costs which may be payable for permission to translate and host this content. For details regarding translations of ESO guidelines please contact: guidelines@eso-stroke.org.